EDITORIAL

Journal of Widya Medika Junior Volume 1 No. 4, October 2019, is our fourth publication since we established this journal to provide a publication avenue for our students to share the work they do during their studies, in hope to cultivate their passion in research and scientific publication. In this issue we continue to present articles covering various medical fields, with a focus on topics covering geriatric medicine and family medicine - the two preeminence of our faculty. The articles on geriatric medicine discussed relationships between: gymnastic frequency and insomnia level; cognitive status and frailty scale in elderly; diabetes mellitus and posterior sub scapular senile cataract; social engagement with cognitive function. Articles on family medicine topic examined; breastfeeding with recurrent acute respiratory tract infection in toddler and neutrophil/lymphocyte ratio in acute appendicitis. Other topics also included in this issue include: Muntingia calabura L. effect towards nitric oxide increment and antibacterial effect of Muntingia calabura L. We hope these articles can prove to be a meaningful contribution to medical knowledge and the society, as this journal continues to mature and reach wider audience.
